

Lidia COTOVANU holds a Ph.D. in History from École des Hautes Études en Sciences Sociales, Paris (2013). She is Senior Researcher at the “Nicolae Iorga” Institute of History of the Romanian Academy (Bucharest). Her research focuses on the migration flows in South-East Europe, in the 14th – 17th centuries; the dependencies of the Eastern Orthodox Patriarchates in the Principalities of Wallachia and Moldavia (1565-1714); the jurisdiction of the Eastern Patriarchates over the Romanian Principalities; the post-Byzantine Orthodox devotional practices and evergetism; the “citizenships” in Medieval and Modern South-East Europe; the social and bureaucratic practices of personal and collective identification in the Danubian Principalities and, more generally, in South-Eastern Europe.
